Interview

Please add your comments in the spaces below. If any particular heading doesn't seem relevant you can skip it. Please bear in mind that I try to keep my write-ups a relatively manageable size.

Please note that I charge based on the amount of writing you send to me. This questionnaire contains 628 words, and I subtract this from the amount of words in this entire document before invoicing you.

Geography

Please feel free to send a map if you have one.

Important countries and cities. Include capital cities, if you have them, plus their populations	There are 7 human kingdoms with names to be determined. A few cities include; - Mountainside (about 2000 people) - Plainswatch (capital of the central human kingdom, over 100,000 people) -The Citadel (fortress) - Lakeview (capital of the northeastern

	kingdom; over 100,000 people,) - Oceanside (capital of the southern island kingdom, over 100,000 people.) There are five kanaen kingdoms with names to be determined. I only have one village currently called South Gate. There is one dragon federation composed of five island states. Some of the cities include; <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Dragonhome (southernmost island and national capital, about 6000 dragons, built into the peak of the tallest mountain.) - The Gateway (fortress on the mainland) - Pilgrim's Rest (about 9000 people and dragons and protected by the gateway on the mainland) - Sanctuary (southernmost island, over 100,000 people and dragons)
Major landmarks – natural (e.g., volcanoes, lakes etc.) and unnatural (burned out nuclear facilities, etc.)	The continent is shaped roughly like a 'J' laid on its long side with the hook to the west. The Himalayan-sized Frozen Peaks mountain range divides this continent into eastern and western halves. A smaller mountain range, the Foothills, parallels them on the western side. I haven't given much thought to the eastern half of the continent besides there being a large desert near the Frozen Peaks and the gryphons live somewhere on the eastern half of the continent. The western half and the 'hook' of the 'J' is further divided roughly into northern and southern regions by an as-of-yet-unnamed mountain range. Where the mountains go into the western sea there is a peninsula and countless craggy sea stacks. Starting with the Kanaen territories in the north, there is the large Gulf of Sorrows with the Ghost Islands on their eastern side and just north of the Frozen Peaks. There is a large peninsula in the northwest that juts out into the western sea. The human territories in the southern region

	contain a Great Lake in the northeast. A large river runs southwest to the southern ocean. There is an archipelago in the south west that holds a human kingdom. The dragons live on an archipelago, composed of five main islands and countless smaller ones, south of the Frozen Peaks out in the southern sea and there are countless smaller islands amongst them. The islands are composed of steep mountains/volcanoes. The southernmost island is the largest and has three mountains in the shape of an inverted triangle. There is a large bay between the two northern mountains/volcanoes.
Oceans and major rivers	The southern sea is called the Turquoise Sea. The western sea is called The Endless Sea. A mighty river flows out of the Great Lake and runs south and west through several kingdoms as it makes its way to the Turquoise Sea. There is a second mighty river that runs between the Foothills and the Frozen Peaks. It actually runs both north and south going into the Gulf of Sorrows and the Turquoise Sea.
Where is your story based (if there is a focus)?	The southern tip of the Frozen Peaks and Foothills, by the Turquoise Sea.
Climate in each of the important areas	I imagine the kanaen territories are much like Canada; cold and harsh interior, more mild and temperate coastal areas, and the far north in almost perpetual winter. The human kingdoms are much like the United States and have a wide variety of climates. The western coast is like Washington through California with mild and temperate weather and plenty of rain or snow. The Frozen Peaks and the Foothills are like the Sierra Nevadas, alpine and quite cold. In fact the Frozen Peaks get their name because their peaks reach such a height as to be perpetually covered in snow. The center- to eastern-north have cold, even severely cold, winters and hot and humid summers. The center- to eastern-south have mild winters and hot and humid

	summers. The dragon's archipelago is tropical with mild winters and summers and plenty of rainfall.
Any other details you feel you need to include	N/A

Ecosystem

Tell me about the plant and animal life in your world.

Plant life	Same/equivalent as Earth's.
Dominant species (if any)	Humans, kanaens, dragons, and gryphons
Predators (if applicable. You may need to make the distinction of apex predators and lower-rung predators)	Same/equivalent as earth's with the addition of wyverns and sea wyrms.
Prey animals (if any)	Same/equivalent as Earth's
Specialist species (if any don't fall into the power dynamic of 'predator/prey)	N/A
Common species (is there a lot of any particular species?)	N/A
Ocean life	Same/equivalent as Earth's
Major viruses and bacterial diseases	Same/equivalent as Earth's; common cold, flu, plague, etc.
Artificial life	N/A
Any other information you think I need to know	N/A

History

Tell me the 'life story' of the world you have created.

Populations of major areas (in the current day, and at times in the past that are relevant. Also let me know when major cities were founded)	N/A
Major wars	(as of yet unnamed dragon's) Rebellion (late 4000s, global) (A Revolutionary/Civil War in one of the

	Kanaen territories mid-5100s, Kanaen) The High King's War (mid-5200s, Dragon/Human) (as of yet unnamed near-nuclear war 6012, Kanaen) And more...
Any other information you think I need to know	N/A

Culture

Tell me about the lifestyles of the peoples in the world you have created.

What foods do people like to eat (and are there any rules about this, ie., are only the nobility allowed to eat meat)?	I figure the finer details vary from country to country. The kanaens in the north rely more on fishing and hunting/ranching but have some farming for the vegetables and grains that can survive the colder climates. The humans enjoy fishing along the coasts and large rivers/lakes as well as hunting and ranching. They have fruits and vegetables throughout most of their territories. The dragons are omnivores and have plenty of fruits and vegetables. Hunting and ranching are limited on their islands but fishing more than makes up the difference for meat.
What is your peoples' art like?
What languages do your peoples speak?	The humans speak various European languages or fictional versions of them. The kanaens speak various Native American languages or fictional versions of them. The dragons speak a Russianesque known as Dragon Tongue.
Do your peoples form into groups, and what groups are these (e.g., families, businesses, etc.) Tell me about these.	The smallest group would be the family and then the local community.
How do different races, gender etc., manage differences in culture?

Politics

Tell me the current state of the world you have created.

Alliances between countries and/or cities	The Endlish have either conquered or are allied with the three southern kingdoms on the mainland.
Alliances between different species	Vikkers and their nearest kanaen neighbors are friendly. The Dalkish and the dragons are friendly but the Dalkish are currently under the control of the Endlish who have banned such friendliness and aid towards the dragons.
Religions	The Ways of Weya (dominant,) other smaller mono- and polytheistic religions and a form of atheism/humanism
Who determines and enforces the law? Who is their government?
Anything else you think I need to know

Economy

How does the world you have created go about its business?

Major businesses and organisations (e.g., Google, Walmart, MI5, SETI, Illuminati-style secret organisations, etc.)	Varies; lumber and mining are big industries along the mountains. Fishing along the coasts. Farming and ranching towards the centers and coasts. Hunting throughout. Then you have the various trades that spring up from those; smithing and jewelers with mines, furniture with lumber, leather and furs with hunting,
Major business
Quality of education (and who is it available to?)	Basic but there are universities.
Quality of medical technology (and who is it available to?)	Primitive I suppose. Though there are the rare magic casters who are invaluable as healers.
Quality of building construction technology	IDK

How is food and other goods distributed?	IDK
Add anything else here you think I need to know
